Last weekend, Tom planned to clean his apartment and finish several tasks he had been delaying for weeks. However, he decided to put off the cleaning again because he wanted to relax and watch a movie. His roommate was annoyed because he had already put up with the mess in the apartment for a long time. The kitchen was full of dirty dishes, and the living room looked terrible.

Later that evening, Tom accidentally left a candle burning in the living room. When he noticed the small fire starting near the curtain, he quickly ran to the kitchen, grabbed some water, and managed to put out the fire before it spread further. His roommate was shocked and said Tom needed to be more careful in the future.

During the argument, Tom felt upset because his roommate began to put him down, saying he was irresponsible and lazy. Tom admitted that he had made mistakes and promised to improve his habits. In the end, they both agreed to clean the apartment together the next day so they could avoid similar problems in the future.
